     C                              D7
They all said Louise was not half bad,
       F              G7               C
It was written on the walls and window shades,
                               D7
And how she'd act the little girl,
  F              G7                      C
A deceiver don't believe her that's her trade.
F           G7     C
Sometimes a bottle perfume,
F          G7         C
Flowers or maybe some lace,
F           G7              Am
Men brought Louise ten-cent trinkets,
        D7                   G
Their intentions were easily traced.
C                                  D7
And everybody knew sometimes she cried,
F              G7                    C
Ah, women like Louise, well they get by.

F    G7    C
F    G7    C
F    G7    Am
D7         G

C                              D7
Everybody thought it kind of sad,
          F        G7         C
when they found Louise in her room,
                                     D7
They'd all put her down below their kind,
           F              G7             C
Still some cried when she died that afternoon.
F           G7          C
Louise rode home on the mail train,
F               G7                 C
Some where down South I heard them say,
F          G7       Am
Too bad it ended so ugly,

    D7                      G
Too bad she had to go this way.
C                               D7
Ah, the wind is blowing colder now,
     F     G7           C
Good night Louise, good night.
G     C   C7
